Phoebe McDonald (MBA 2016)

Market Access Strategy Consultant, Commercial Eyes

“One really good thing about Melbourne Business School is the practical learn-and-apply nature of the program. In many instances, what I’m learning is directly applicable to a client engagement or internal managerial aspect of my role.

My most recent promotion has been a direct consequence of the knowledge I’ve gained from my MBA, which has given me the broader managerial skills required for such a role.”

Carlos Mahecha (MBA 2017)

Business Process Engineer, BP Global Business Services

“The impact on my career by studying an MBA has been immense. The lens that I was looking through before was quite insular, and being exposed to an excellent network of seasoned professionals has allowed me to understand how different areas of organisations work and how they all come together.

The professional that I am today is completely different to the one who started the program three and a half years ago. Out of the many decisions I’ve made in my life, studying an MBA has been one of the best.”

How to Apply

Entry to the Part-time MBA is via the Graduate Diploma in Business Administration, where you study the first nine subjects of the MBA. You then transition to the Master level and complete a further nine subjects.

How do we select students?

We want to provide you with the educational experience that will support you in fulfilling your personal goals and ambitions. To achieve this, we take a holistic approach when assessing applications. Not only do we take your academic background into account, to assess how you are likely to perform in the classroom, we look for evidence of your ability to contribute to class learning as well as your leadership potential.

Jessica Thomson-Robbins (MBA 2016)

Director of Sales, memobottle

“Studying an MBA has had a massive impact on my career. I didn’t have any financial nous, but to be effective above and beyond my current role, I needed that business understanding. Working in a start-up, you need to be able to do everything, and my team pull on my knowledge all the time.

We operate in three different currencies, and the understanding I’ve gained of the financial landscape of Europe and the US is crucial to crafting our marketing and pricing strategy.”

David Waldron (MBA 2016)

Pricing & Portfolio Manager, ANZ

“I have a very strong technical background, so one of the reasons I chose to study an MBA was to round out my skillset. I wanted to articulate different ideas to different people in a room, build relationships and influence parties from very diverse backgrounds.

Being able to apply the concepts that you’re studying to your day job is an incredible benefit of the Part-time program. I’ve taken innovative ideas, concepts and theories that work in organisations all over the world and applied them to my daily professional life.”
